Four more lame ducks were given easy jobs by the administration Tuesday.

This weather is undoubtedly fine growing weather for crops, but it is very bad for growing ideas.

The absence of our usual heavy editorial is due to the editor being away on his summer vacation.

A nomination dishonestly and corruptly obtained binds no member of a political party to support the beneficiary thereof.

The expulsion of Lorimer shows that even the Senate can be reached by public opinion. That his election came from a corrupt course was shown, though he managed to keep the evidence from showing he caused the corruption.

The dictagraph has gotten in its work again. This time in South Carolina and the reputation of the Governor has been scorched. It is funny how the people will believe a machine in preference to a man who was there and knew all about it.

The suffrage is a means of deciding how all public affairs shall be conducted and therefore everyone is interested and affected thereby. The manner in which laws are enforced, the sanitary and police regulations affected women the same as men. That women should be denied any say in such matters is an injustice. That they are as intelligent, capable and as interested in good government as the men would be denied by few, of these the majority will be soured bachelors, hen pecked husbands, and corrupt politicians. The latter want to run public affairs for their own benefit and not the benefit of the public and are afraid they could not handle the women as easy as they can the men for their crooked transactions. From the position of the other two classes their reasons are apparent. Both are the weaklings of the male species and doubt their ability to meet the women on even terms in the business world. Granting of suffrage to women is simply giving them an equal opportunity.

A howl is going up from some quarters because a number of Republican presidential electors have announced that if elected they will vote for Theodore Roosevelt for president. The honorable course for every man who is a candidate for office is to announce what he will do if elected and define his policy before the election. If the people don't want what he advocates they should not elect him. The misrepresentative and the real traitor is the man who deceives the public as to his position and does different from what the voters expected. This was the case in selecting the delegates at large to the national Republican convention this year from Ohio, and the three and one-half delegates from this county who aided in overriding the 47,000 majority voice of the people of Ohio were misrepresentatives and betrayed their constituency. From such sources is the howl coming. Let everyone weep because such traitors cannot reap the full benefit of their dirty work.

Equal Suffrage.

A good time coming, just wait a little longer.

The refrain from the old slogan may become the slogan of the day.

It is now the consensus of opinion of the students of the science of government and political economy that the day is coming and not far distant that women will be given the ballot.

There is an evident spirit of unrest, a feeling wide spread that reforms in many lives are needed and must be accomplished. Enlarging the suffrage may or may not be the proper move, but isn't it worth the trial?

Hear what Senator LaFollette says: The great economic and industrial questions of today affect women as directly as they do men. And the interests of men and women are not antagonistic one to the other, but are mutual and coordinate. Remember that working women need the ballot to regulate conditions under which they work; that housekeepers need the ballot to regulate the sanitary conditions under which they and their families must live; that mothers need the ballot to regulate the moral conditions under which their children must be brought up; that teachers need it to secure just wages and influence the management of the public schools; that tax-paying women need the ballot to protect their property; All women need the ballot because they are concerned equally with men in good and bad government.

Remember that all those interested in the cause are urged to attend the meetings which are being held in the Parish House on Tuesday afternoons at two o'clock.

Edwin McNay who was sleeping upstairs over the office fired at the intruder but the revolver failed to work properly and the fellow escaped. Upon investigation it was discovered that he had first broken the lock on the door of Cameron's store but had only secured a very small amount of change.
